GLENDALE NEWS.

Devoted to the best interests of Glendale, Tropico, Eagle Rock

VOL. II. GLENDALE, LOS ANGELES COUNTY, CAL., SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1906. No. 30

THEY WILL WAIT.

A gentleman who lives in Tropico and owns property there, informed the Editor of The News that he had thought seriously of selling his property in Tropico and moving to Glendale, but since the movement to disincorporate, he has changed his mind and will wait. On Thursday one of the most reliable and substantial men of this section came to this office and in speaking of the disincorporation movement informed us that a well-to-do acquaintance of his had made up his mind, previous to the disincorporation agitation, to purchase property in Glendale and build a modern home here, but since the disincorporation agitation he has concluded to invest in a city where the people are not so easily led by prejudice and where there is more unanimity of purpose among the people. These are only two of many instances of similar character and there is no question but this unfortunate agitation is doing great injury to the future prospects of our fair little city. It is the duty of loyal Glendale citizens to encourage, (rather than discourage) those who are trying to advance the very best interests of this community. If there are any citizens in Glendale who feel that they are not being fairly treated it is their duty to put their grievances before those whom they helped choose to represent the city's interests, before they vote to disincorporate. Should disincorporation carry, it will prove a boomerang to those who bring it about. Such an unwise step would make us the laughing stock of every village in Southern California and Los Angeles real estate men would take advantage of our short-sightedness to interest investors in other sections. Huntington Park and Sawtelle have but recently incorporated and San Fernando, which is now on the eve of incorporating, would take the lead as the progressive town of the valley and Glendale, which has made such wonderful progress since incorporating, would have to take a back seat. The damage already occasioned on account of holding up of public improvements of streets, etc., is great, but if the town should disincorporate there would be very little, if any, public improvement of streets either by grading or uniform building of curbs and sidewalks and instead of the gas and railroad companies making extensive improvements here, they would seek a more enterprising community in which to invest their money. People who complain on account of their taxes being higher should inquire of those who own property outside the corporate limits what the difference is, if any, between their taxes this year and last, under the county assessment. An instance of the difference in the assessment in the county is told by P. S. McNutt, who paid $45 taxes on his north Glendale Adobe ranch last year, but this year he paid $115 taxes on the same property. Don't imagine that the entire increase in taxation is occasioned by incorporation, for such is not the case; and don't get the idea in your head that you are being taxed to pay for improvements along other people's property, for every property owner who has the street improved in front of his or her property has to pay for the improvement and people residing on other streets are benefited at the expense of their enterprising neighbor. Don't imagine that every time the newspaper publishes a notice of street work or a call for bids for a franchise, etc., that every citizen is taxed to pay the expense, for such is not the case; all notices of street work and street railway franchises are paid for by the parties who apply for the priviliges. In fact the city is taxed to pay for the publication of only those ordinances which are commonly needed for the lawful government of the city. Many wild assertions have been made, but it is well to KNOW what one is doing before making accusations that cannot be substantiated. Don't jump at conclusions, or be misled by evil influences. Investigate for yourself before foolishly injuring yourself as well as your neighbor, who has a little more light on this question than you may have. Be honest with yourself and do not let your prejudice lead you into doing wrong. It is a mighty poor policy to ruin yourself in order to get even with some one whom you have an imaginary grievance against.

Glendale Country Club.

There is much being said regarding the organization of a country club for Glendale, and for the information of the general public we will state that a meeting will be held in the office of Sternberg Brothers, today, Saturday, for the purpose of perfecting a permanent organization of a country club. The object of the club is to promote the social and material welfare of its members and the community in which it will be located.

At the meeting today any citizen of Glendale, Tropico, Burbank, Eagle Rock, La Crescenta, or within a reasonable distance of Glendale, will be allowed to present his application for membership. The club is not gotten up for selfish purposes or to promote the interests of any individual or clique, but is organized for the general welfare of the entire community.

The membership fee is $50 and there are now 56 signers to the membership roll, making $2800 subscribed. L. C. Brand donates $200 which gives the club $3000 to start with. Mr. Brand offers to loan the club an amount equal to the sum raised by membership fees, making a total of $6000, which will be sufficient to purchase a suitable lot and erect a commodious club house. It is proposed to adopt by-laws for the government of the Glendale club, similar to those used by the Jonathan Club of Los Angeles. There are to be bath rooms, a reading room, a billiard parlor, a kitchen and all conveniences for the comfort and proper entertainment of the club members, besides there will be tennis and croquet grounds connected with the club. Mr. Brand has agreed to offer a valuable prize every year for tennis contests and it is expected that the organization of this club will be the means of drawing all sections of Glendale and the valley closer together and cause a more harmonious and united action of our citizens for the general welfare. Those whose names appear on the membership list are representative citizens and there are a number of honorary members from Los Angeles, among whom are well-known bankers and business men. The meeting today will be open to the public.

INJURIOUS DELAY.

Had it not been for the petition to disincorporate Glendale, our city would now be undergoing vast and important improvements, as Fourth St. and Glendale avenue would be in charge of grading and sidewalk contractors and improvements that are vital to the growth of our town would be well under way. Think of the injury you are doing to your own property, you who would disincorporate Glendale; these improvements would not have cost you a red cent, but by your signing a petition for disincorporation you have delayed improvements that would have enhanced the value of your own property and by this act you have denied your neighbor the right to improve his property, and to make good streets for the use of the general public, at his own expense. Don't you think you have made a mistake? Think it over, and when you go to the polls on December 12, vote with a good clear conscience that is guided by unbiased reason.

FOLLOW THE LEADER.

"I have 225 votes—they will vote just as I tell them to—I told them how to vote and I know I will win."

The above is an extract from assertions made by the leader of the disincorporation forces. A grand leader, indeed—one to be proud of.

Glendale, one of the prettiest little suburban towns of Los Angeles, will in December vote on the question of disincorporation. To an outsider this movement looks like a step backward. One would just as soon expect to see a young miss, who for a year had enjoyed the "advantages" of society, go back to short dresses and school-girl companionship.—Monrovia Messenger.

Thanksgiving

What a train of thought and volume of appetite that word doth bring forth. In consonance with the joyous, festive and bountiful occasion, when all nature is thankful, and the inner man should be likewise, we have been scanning the universe, yea, even as far as Garvanza, for toothsome viands to tempt the palate and delight the heart of the men and women with epicurean tastes.

We have on hand, subject to your generous orders, HEINZ'S Superior Mince Meat and Apple Butter.

RICHARDSON & ROBBINS' Unexcelled Plum Pudding, which has a reputation of being even better than Mother could make. We have just got in a new lot of Olives of the fancy size, and have a complete line of Pickles, both Sweet and Plain in bulk and in glass.

We have also an extra delicacy on hand in the shape of Pineapple Cubes in glass, which is the choicest product of the finest pineapple plantations in the Sandwich islands.

And don't forget that notwithstanding the recent frost our line of Vegetables will be as complete as ever.

Wishing you all a bounteous and happy day, with many things to be thankful for, and hopes of more, we are,

Yours very truly,

Fire in La Canada Valley

Early Monday morning nearly 2,000 acres in La Canada valley and the Arroyo Seco was devastated by fire which broke out in the brush. What started it no one knows. A steady Southwest wind soon put it beyond control. All the rangers in the district were soon heroically at work and Pasadena was called upon for aid with the result that several hundred Japanese were sent from the construction camps.

At 2:30 the flames had reached Switzer's canon when the roar of the flames and the heat were something terrible. Cactus impeded the progress of the firefighters who advanced right into the fury of the flames to save the homes of the ranchers. Two houses and great quantities of hay were destroyed. Although the fire extended along a course of several miles, Altadena and Pasadena, both as dry as tinder, were saved from sparks. By four o'clock the fire was practically under control, though guards were kept out all night. Hundreds of quail and rabbits were burned or killed as they ran terrified from the flames.

A Pronounced Success

Of social importance in local musical circles was the recital given on Friday evening in Masonic hall, under the direction of Mrs. Josephine Bryant. The hall was filled with music-lovers from Glendale and the valley, gathered there to hear the sweet songstress who had labored so faithfully and so well to bring about this unquestionable success. As she stepped before her audience, gowned in fluffy white, adorned with French touches of black velvet, with a single rose nestling in her hair, she was greeted with the applause that proved her a favorite. Possessed of a modesty as sweet as it is charming, Mrs. Bryant is utterly devoid of those mannerisms which so often effect singers, and clearly it could be seen that her heart was in her theme as the first sweetly solemn notes of "Ave Marie" thrilled her hearers.

Mrs. Bryant was very ably assisted by Jamie W. Overton, violinist; Mr. Edward Simpson Fuller, pianist; and charming Edith Harris from Los Angeles. The recital was given for the benefit of the Ladies' Aid of M. E. church.

Delicious pies, roasted chicken, cakes, rolls, roasted meats, jams, jellies, canned fruits, baked beans and lots more. Where? Masonic Hall December 1st.

THE STORY OF TWO FROGS

As Applied to Agitation on Incorporation

By E. D. Goode

One frog sat [illegible] by a spring,
With a satisfied expression,
While his neighbor hopped around with glee,
To make a good impression.
The first was like our sleepy friends
Who are always feeling tired,
And when they're called to meet at night,
To go, they can't be hired.
They say they won't go out at night,
Though it might mean their salvation,
And blame us all, both great and small,
For our constant agitation.
And thus croaked the frog of moss back mould,
With views most pessimistic.
While he who hoped for better things,
Had thoughts more optimistic.
In the early morn at break of day,
The frogs were both quite weary,
A dairyman chanced to pass that way,
With word and song most cheery.
Said he, this milk is much too rich
For people in the city,
The spring is near, the water clear,
To resist would seem a pity.
To think with him was to act at once,
Just like a corporation,
That water stock, till it's all submerged,
And is not worth restoration.
He placed his can in the water clear,
And the frogs were, of course, both captured,
And as the milk was yet quite warm,
They at first felt quite enraptured.
But the can was smooth—no place to hold,
They had to both keep kicking,
The pessimist said: "I'm going down
There's no place here for sticking."
The other said: "Don't give up yet,
I have overcome before,
And while there's life there still is hope,
And always an open door,
But to find it you must rely on self,
Put forth your own endeavor,
For if we lose the fight today,
We lose our all forever."
But the moss back frog was very weak,
Through living like a drone,
While the rustler still had strength and vim,
Gained in battling for his own.
"I'm going down—I can't keep up,
No help can save me now,
Your agitation is so great,
You'd drown me, anyhow."
So down he went, like a lump of lead,
And lay there stiff and still,
But the optimist kept a steady stroke,
With the same determined will.
The milk still rich, the butter came
To the top in quite a lump,
"Hello!" said he, "I've made a seat,"
And on the butter jumped.
And there he sat in peace and joy,
With all in his possession,
Was monarch true of all surveyed,
With no one there to question.
The grocer who had bought the can,
Came 'round to fill his cup,
There sat the frog on the butter pat,
With hope and joy way up,
The grocer took the meaning in,
And had to laugh with glee
And not for luck, but for his pluck,
He gladly set him free.
Like him, let us wake up and work,
Increase our agitation,
And make our town the Pride of All,
By re-incorporation.

THE DARKTOWN SHOW AND COTTON-BALL.

All will soon have the opportunity to hear Claudia Hazen White, a highly finished, self-possessed artist, who has no equal as an expressionist. Those who attend her entertainments are enthusiastic in praise of her artistic merit, perfect enunciation, and graceful bearing. Her voice is rich, full, cultivated; her selections very fine, alternating between the pathetic and the humorous style, showing wonderful versatility and thorough training. She traverses the distance between tragedy and comedy with perfect ease, and is equally at home in both. Mrs. White is the niece of Gen. William P. Hazen, one of Florida's influential and wealthy men, owning the finest orange grove in the world; and cousin of William P. Hazen of the United States signal service.

The Darktown Show and Cotton Ball is a complimentary performance given to Mrs. White by her friends in this and surrounding towns. A number of society women will comprise the reception committee, assisted by such women as Mrs. O. H. Burbridge, of Los Angeles; Mrs. Harry Dow-Kirke and others. Although a minstrel show, the most exacting tastes will be gratified by the classic work provided, as well as comedy to supply the fun. Mrs. Kirke who impersonates Black Patti, will also give Ardette's Waltz-song in Italian; Miss Aynon E. Edmonds, Los Angeles, will participate, also Mrs. J. Reynolds Gerling, Mrs. Lenard and son of Hollywood.

Press Opinions

Expressionist, actress, lecturer; Cludia Hazen White is to be lauded. In conversation we find her broad-minded and intelligent, her mission in life being to make the world better that she has lived.—Oyster Bay Pilot.

Nature has fitted Mrs. White for her work, having endowed her with a perfect figure, and expressive eyes that portray every emotion.—Jacksonville, (Fla.) Times-Union.

The charming personality of this gifted artist will long remain a cherished memory.—Terrell, Texas Star, Nov. 21, 1901.

Claudia Hazen White is of course, always the leading attraction—Tampa Daily Herald.

Mrs. Claudia Hazen White captivates her hearers with her wonderful magnetism and magnificent presence.—San Antonio Light.

Presbyterian Social

As the time approaches for the social planned by the Ladies Aid of the First Presbyterian church to be given in Masonic Hall December 1st general interest is being taken in different features of the affair, notably the delicatessen counter where will be provided good things for the Sunday dinner, such as roast chicken, salads, pies, cakes, canned fruit, jellies and many novel dainties, besides good old fashoned brown bread, rolls, baked beans, etc.

At the candy booth presided over by Miss Ida M. Waite, a bevy of live chrysanthemums will dispense home-made candies in hand painted bon-bon boxes; Japanese novelties and little surprises for the children will be found there.

Rebecca's well will be an attractive spot, and the most delicious kinds of ice cream will be served.

A fine program will be presented during the evening, made up of talent from Glendale, Tropico and Los Angeles. Everybody come, bring your friends, and participate in the general good time.

Wedding Anniversary

The seventeenth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Peckham, being also the birthday of Mrs. Peckham, was fitly celebrated on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. C. C. Chandler. Pale yellow chrysanthemums shaded the electric globes, and lovely pink roses from Monrovia, with the delicate greenery of ferns completed the decorations. The birthday cake was large enough to hold the required number of candles which were pale green. The affair called for a gathering of relatives and close friends, and after the dinner the honor-guest was showered with gifts. Among them was a gorgeous kimona of pale gray silk, embroidered with tall purple iris blossoms. There was a handsome set of hemstitched table linen, a post card cushion, some rare ferns, a large oval picture, and besides other lovely things was the gift of a corner lot to Mrs. Peckham from her husband. This is the south-west corner on Central and Tropico Aves., where they will build a home. During the winter they will occupy the house built for them on Tropico and Walnut. Mrs. Peckham, formerly of Chicago, spent part of the summer in Berkeley and is now living in Glendale, on Fourth street.

The Potter Home

The new home built by Mrs. Harriet Belle Potter is completed, and is now occupied by the family. The house is a large one, containing nine rooms, and is located on the east side of E street, in the McIntyre tract. The grounds are one hundred feet wide by one hundred and fifty deep, and are being artistically laid out with a great variety of vines and plants native to California. A rose garden will be a feature, and good cement walks are already laid. Surrounding the house are over twenty five Valencia orange trees. The house was planned entirely by Mrs. Potter and contains many original ideas. The reception hall, finished in golden oak, contains a quaint old stair case, finished in old mission style. A built-in book case in the living room is made of selected beautifully finished woods and is one of the prettiest features in the house. All the rooms are most convenient, and the whole house is wired for electricity and piped for gas. The pantry is large enough to contain the cooking stove, cabinets, sink with hot and cold water, also obtainable on the screen porch. The solar heater of sixty gallons, supplies hot water all over the house. On the upper floor, besides sleeping rooms, are several large closets, linen press, modern bath and another kitchen with all conveniences.

Don't forget that life will not be complete without a pair of those Red School House shoes sold by Noble Brothers.

TROPICO

Guy Rice has gone to Bakersfield, Cal. on a short business trip.

There will be a restaurant soon in the old pool room, run by Mrs. Lizymanski.

Mr. Albert Englehardt has moved into his fine new $4,000 home on Central avenue.

The Tropico Improvement Association will meet at Logan Hall on Wednesday evening, November 28th.

Mr. E. E. Harrington of Los Angeles, has just moved into the Dagerholme place on the San Fernando Road.

Mrs. Mary Bond of Santa Monica was a guest Tuesday and Wednesday of Mrs. Rice. Mrs. Bond also visited in Burbank.

Hal Davenport has bought out the real estate business of C. F. Compton and now occupies the office on corner of Brand Boulevard and Tropico avenue.

After an absence of ten days, William Harvey has returned to Tropico very much indisposed from his recent experiences on the desert. He reports the sand storm of last Saturday and Sunday as something never to be forgotton, there being no rest or sleep while the storm was in progress.

A surprise birthday party was given to Miss Evalena Ayers at her home on Glendale avenue Wednesday evening. The young lady's surprise as well as her delight was gennine. A beautifully decorated birthday cake and a mammoth box of confections helped to supply the fun. Music and games furnished entertainment for the evening.

The women of the First Presbyterian church have about completed all arrangements for their bazaar in Logan Hall, November 30th. All plans for the dinner are made. Santa Clause has provided a number of dainty dolls in fluffy white and gay ribbons, as well as numbers of other things which are beautifully made. Come early and avoid the rush, as everybody will be there.

Tropico is nothing if not progressive. Among the most energetic and progressive of its citizens are the members of the new firm, Miller & Eshelman, who have opened a new store on Glendale avenue, at the intersection of Cypress street. Aside from a new stock of groceries and fresh fruits and vegetables, a supply of fresh meats will be received daily. Every courtesy will be extended to customers and prompt delivery is assured. Patronage from Tropico and Glendale is solicited.

The Rice home, corner Central and Tropico avenues, is receiving some fine improvements in the shape of newly laid polished floors and handsomely tinted walls. One room has the new chamoise tint which makes the finest background for pastel shades known. The handsome living room is finished in a rich dark buckskin which lighted up with red could not be surpassed. One of the sleeping rooms is done in the palest shade of pompeiian red. The small paned windows of this room are a very attractive feature of the house. One of the most perfectly kept lawns in Tropico surround this artistic little home.

To honor her brother, Mr. Summers and his wife from Chicago, Mrs. Chas. Kilmer opened her home on Glendale avenue Monday evening, November 19th, with a charmingly appointed musicale. The house has recently been remodelled and enlarged and decorated in the most artistic manner possible. For that evening the home was brightened with branches of holly from Catalina Island, suggesting the approaching holidays. Master Summers, who sings in Christ's church on Michigan avenue, Chicago, sang "Daddy" and a lullaby in a clear soprano voice of remarkable purity. "Because"—Guy D'Hardelot; and "Oh Dry Those Tears"—Tersa Del Riego, were given with telling effect by Mrs. C. L. Peckham. "My Lover Will Come Today"—DeHoven, was given by Mr. Donell, accompanied by Mrs. Donell. An original march "The Byrn Manor Club Shottise" by C. L. Peckham and "Oh, Promise Me," Mr. Summers, were effective numbers. Darky songs suggesting old times during the war, were given by Miss Bardwell. Old-fashioned songs by the company wound up the evening's festivities. Light refreshments were served.

Mrs. Bancroft Entertains

The quaintly charming bungalow home of Mrs. A. Loring Bancroft on Brand Boulevard was the scene of a lovely dinner on Tuesday evening at half after six. The affair was planned to honor Mr. and Mrs. Summers, of Chicago and covers were laid for twelve. The beauty of the rooms was enhanced with masses of autumnal blossoms, the smart effect being carried out in table decorations, which consisted of scarlet geraniums and feathery fronds of asparagus plumosus. Scarlet shaded candles sent a warm glow over the artistically arranged table. An informal evening followed, when music was enjoyed.

Bring the children to see Rebecca at the well, Saturday evening, December 1st, Masonic Hall.
